Aus and the painful trauma and tragedy revealed

And the finale of season ½ and 3 au Alfred described the new class of criminals as individuals who have "got the whole world scared" (7:06-7:07). He states that there have been "multiple sightings of people who aren't normal causing crimes all around the world" (7:09-7:12). He also notes that these are not the typical muggers, murderers, and crime lords that Batman was used to (6:47-6:51), but rather something "entirely new" (6:54-6:56 Charles Manson, Lee Harvey, and James Earl Ray. The character's concept also draws inspiration from the widespread fear of child safety and advertising, and potentially real-world events like the Hillside Stranglers or the Boston Strangler, according to writer Don Mancini. Batman: the knights fall 2016 2020 and Arkham city 2024 with Steven universe/batman and the joker/ agent of chaos dark au are a tragic because it culminates in Batman's profound failure and loss, highlighted by the Joker's death (his nemesis/opposite) and kelsy, and dick Grayson/ Robin and the amount of years of self-trauma in the past increases more trauma, leading deep depression, and schizophrenia (his best friend), leaving him isolated, heartbroken, and feeling responsible for the chaos, despite saving many lives; the ending emphasizes his inability to truly "win" and the perpetual cycle of darkness, breaking him emotionally and showcasing a tragic flaw of being unable to save everyone, especially those closest to him.

Key Tragic Elements:

1. The Joker's Death: Batman's inability to save Joker, even as Joker was dying from the chemicals that made him the joker, signifies a massive failure, as Batman couldn't prevent the death of his greatest foe, a death he technically wanted but couldn't orchestrate without compromising his morals.
2. Talia al Ghul's Death: Batman's Gotham before midnight and Arkham trilogy's Batman failure to save Talia, the woman he loved and daughter of Ra's al Ghul, deeply wounds him, making him feel responsible for her demise as well.
3. The Cycle of Chaos: The game concludes with Batman isolated, mourning, and feeling that the chaos he fights against ultimately consumes those around him, leaving him with little victory and immense emotional pain, a feeling that carries into Batman/ the war of hush 2021 all the to 2025 with the joker/hush
4. A Shakespearean Tragedy: The narrative uses elements of classic tragedy, featuring a flawed hero (Batman), a struggle between good and evil, and inevitable loss, suggesting that despite his heroism, Batman is bound to suffer tragic defeats, say the YouTube video.

Why It Hits Hard:

- Emotional Depth: The game explores the complex, co-dependent relationship between Batman and Joker, making Joker's death feel personal and devastating, not just a villain's demise.
- Broken Idealism: Batman's relentless fight against chaos leads to personal tragedy, showing that even he cannot always stop death or prevent his world from falling apart, making his crusade feel less triumphant and more heartbreaking

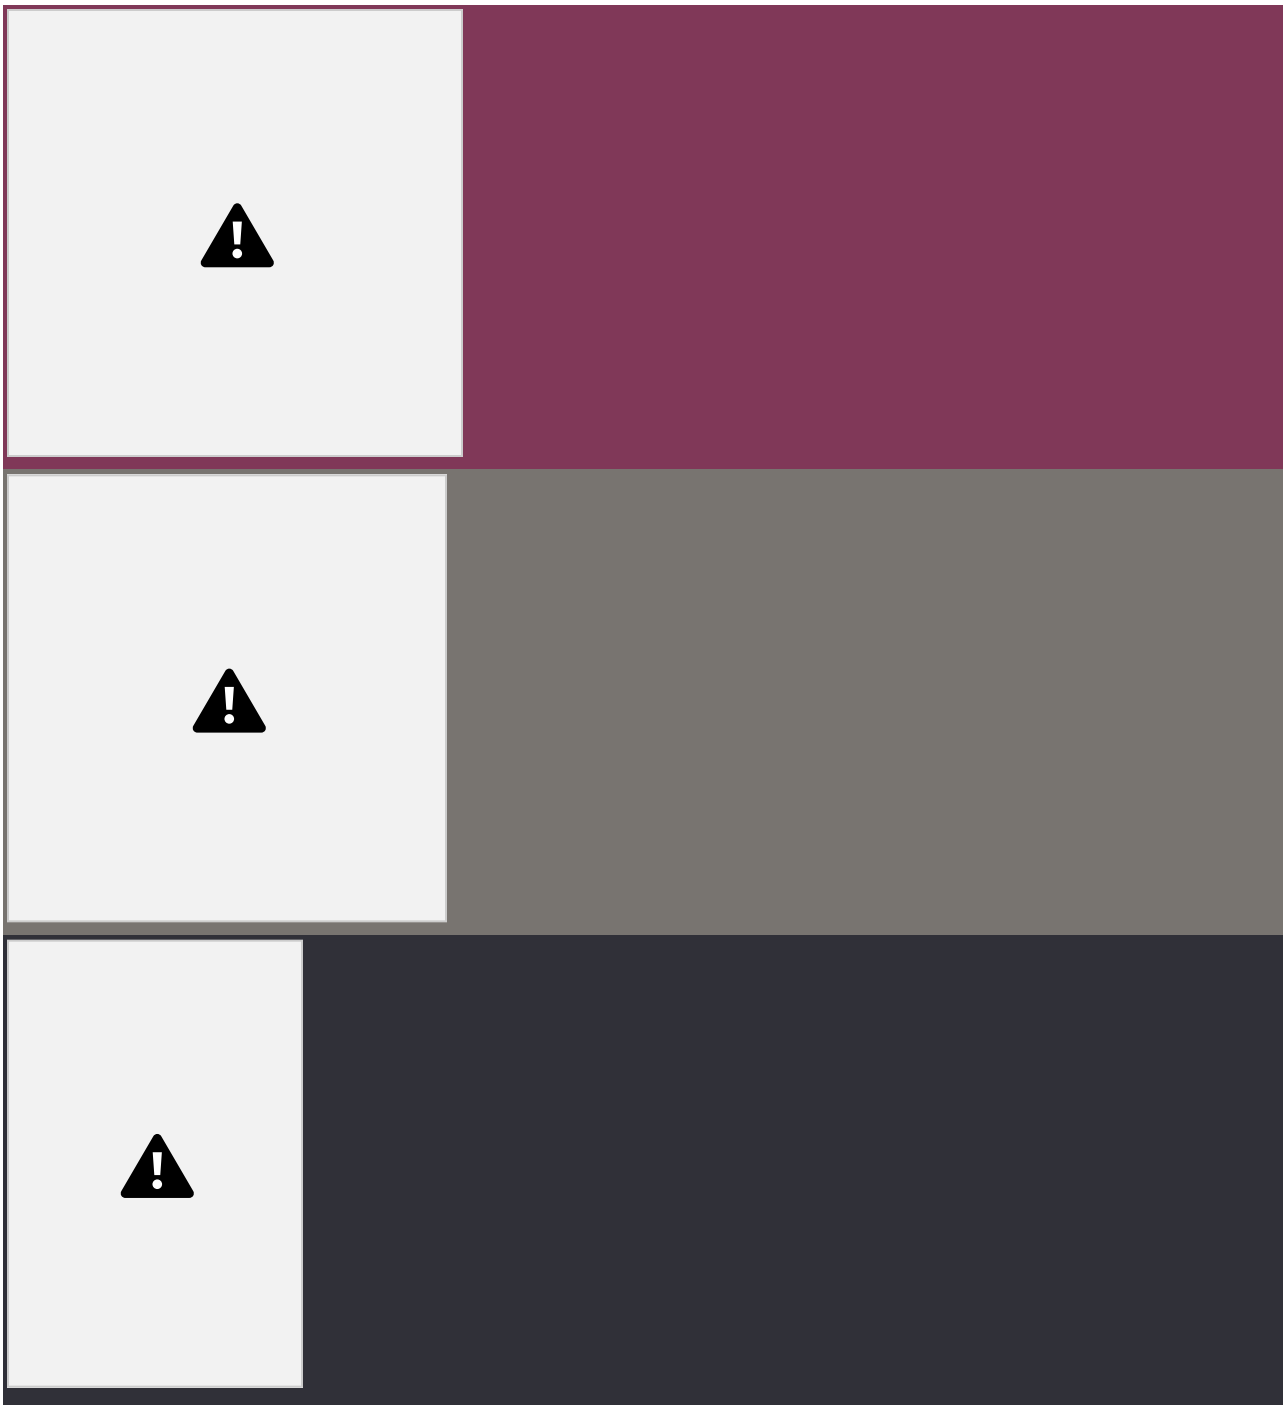
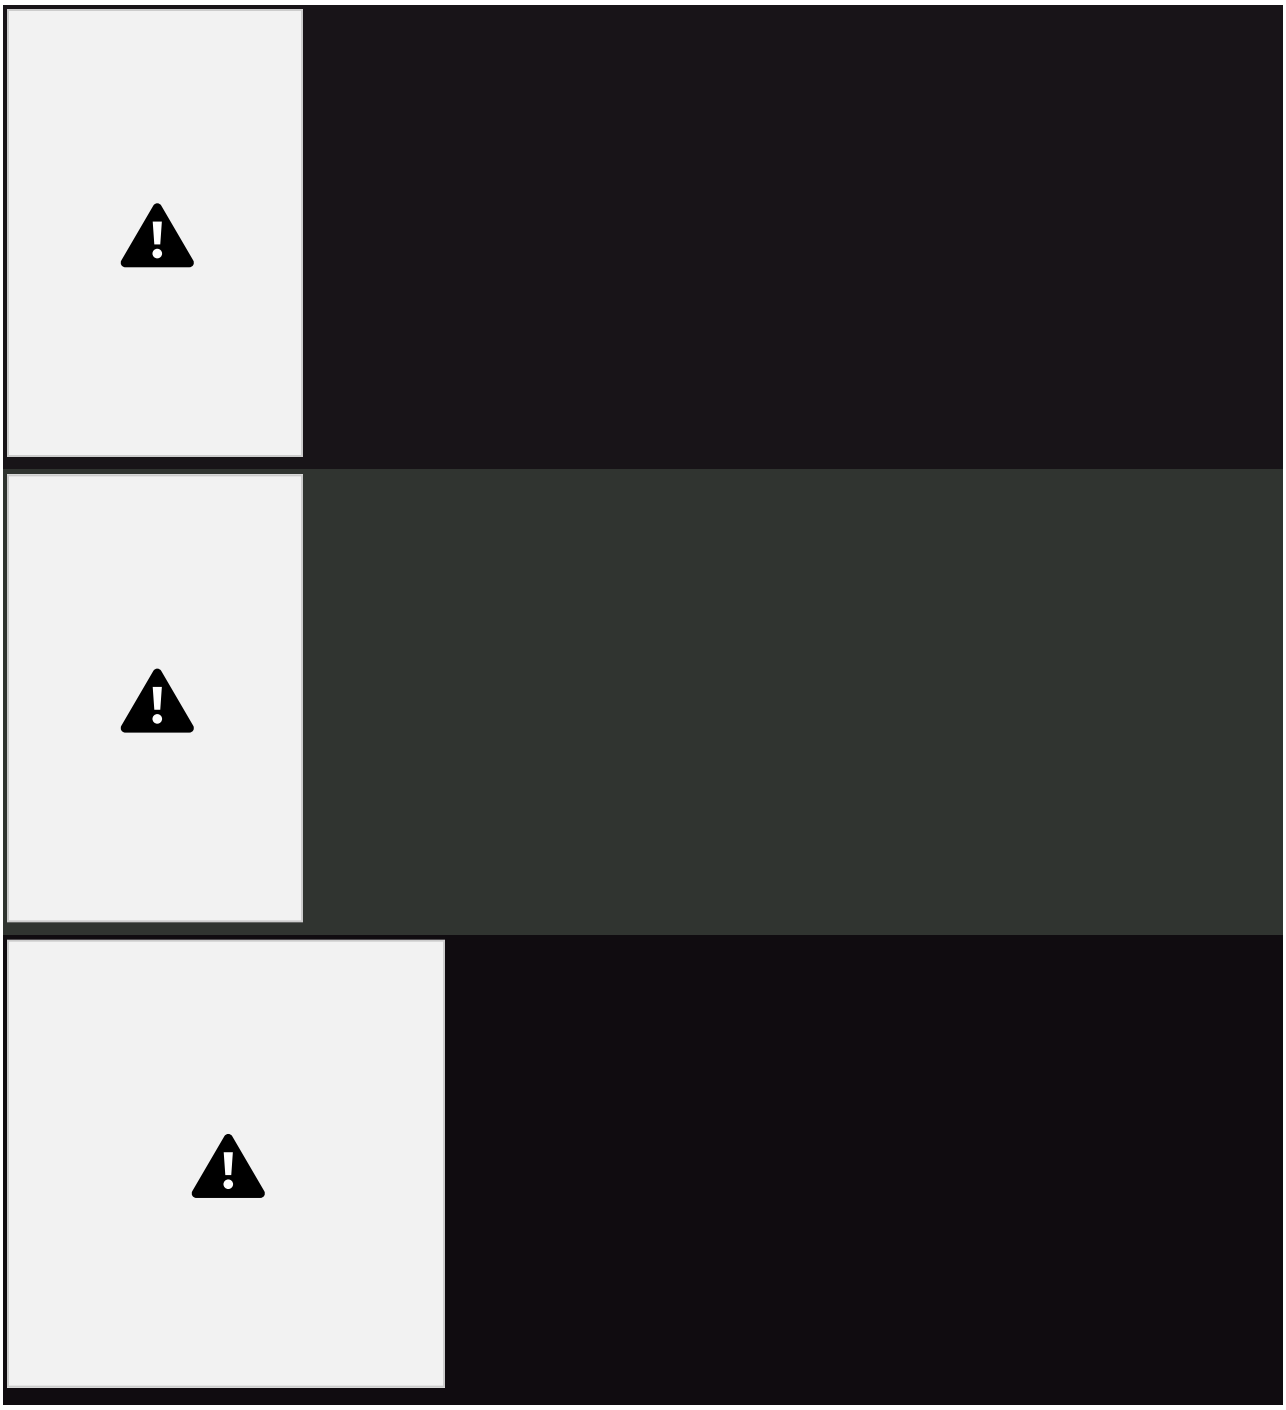
Batman: Three Jokers

Comic book series





Batman: 3 Jokers is an American comic book limited series published by the publishing company DC Comics. It is a spiritual successor to Batman: Knight of the shadows and Batman: A Death in the Family.

The joker aka Michael myers

Michael Myers Bruce Wayne

Harry Potter as Batman beyond 2024

Michael Bruce Wayne Myers has been portrayed with different motivations across the films:

initially as pure, inexplicable evil with no motive, then with the motivation to kill his remaining family members, and in some continuities, driven by a supernatural curse or cult. The original 1978 film left his motivation mysterious, while later sequels introduced the idea that his target was his family, specifically his sister, Laurie Strode, and her descendants.

Original 1978 film

- Pure evil: The original movie presents Michael as a force of nature with no understandable motive, an embodiment of pure evil with no discernible reason for his actions.
- The "why" is not the point: This lack of a motive was intended to be terrifying, as he was a faceless, emotionless predator.

Subsequent films

- Family vendetta: Halloween II (1981) established that Laurie Strode was Michael's sister, shifting his motivation from a random evil to a relentless pursuit of his bloodline.
- Bloodline extinction: This new motivation made his killings less random; his primary goal became eliminating his remaining family members, killing others only if they got in his way.
- Supernatural curse: Some versions of the story added a supernatural element, such as the "Curse of Thorn," which drove him to kill his family members.

What this means

- The motivation depends on the film: The reason Michael kills can vary significantly depending on which movie or timeline you are watching.
- His ultimate goal is family elimination: Even when killing others, his underlying motivation is often to clear the path to his ultimate targets: his surviving family.

About a little over half way through filming the finale so I decided to throw together a trailer since I haven't posted in so long. I'm trying to get this thing out before the summer is over and if all goes well I should. It's gonna be a 30-40 minute video so it's taking a lot of time. ALSO I CHOSE THE NAME ENDGAME BEFORE AVENGERS ANNOUNCED IT SO IM STICKING WITH IT. You will see why I chose the name Endgame because the episode is kinda based on the graphic novel Batman: Endgame.

Hush's motive was rooted in a deep-seated resentment towards Bruce Wayne and his father. He was angry that Thomas Wayne saved his mother after the car accident, wishing she had died so he could have inherited money and been an orphan like Bruce. He felt he had to pretend to be someone he wasn't for years while Bruce reaped the benefits of his parents' death (15:05-15:25). His ultimate goal was to expose Bruce as a coward by taking him to the Joker the joker/ hush yes yes

Hush, whose real name is Dr Thomas Elliot is a brilliant surgeon and a childhood friend of Bruce Wayne who becomes a criminal mastermind and a major antagonist for Batman. He resents Bruce Wayne because his father thwarted a plot to murder his parents, and he uses his intellect and surgical skills to meticulously plan and execute schemes to destroy Batman, often by manipulating other villains.

- Origin: Thomas Elliot's resentment stems from his childhood, where he felt his father's life was ruined by Thomas Wayne.
- Skills: He is a master surgeon, capable of performing complex procedures on himself, and a meticulous planner who uses his vast resources and intellect to outwit Batman.
- Identity: He assumes the identity of "Hush" and is known for his surgical mask and his ability to impersonate others through plastic surgery.
- Relationship with Batman: He is a recurring antagonist who often manipulates other villains to achieve his goals, and he has a deep-seated obsession with Batman.
- Key storylines: He is a central figure in the "Batman: Hush" storyline, which introduces his character and his obsession with Batman. He also plays a significant role in other storylines, such as "Heart of Hush" and "Batman: Battle for the Cowl".
- In this episode, Batman and his team are trying to stop Hush. The police, led by Commissioner Bullock, are actively hunting Batman, believing him to be a murderer (6:59).
- Key plot points include:
- • Confrontation with Hush: Batman's team (Tim, Tyler, and Alfred) confronts Hush, who has captured Barbara Gordon (2:18-5:00). Hush reveals his motive is to make Batman suffer, mentioning how Batman "almost killed" Jim Gordon (2:33).
- • Wayne Manor Party: Bruce Wayne hosts a campaign announcement party for Harvey Dent, which he also uses as a trap to lure out Hush (8:42-9:09). Commissioner Bullock and his officers also attend the party, hoping to catch Batman (10:11).
- • Harvey Dent's Announcement: Harvey Dent announces his candidacy for Gotham City Mayor, stating his goal to make the city safe and criticizing Batman (12:00-12:44).
- • Hush's Escape and New Clue: During the party, Hush abducts Harvey Dent (12:56). A new victim is found with a note reading hush's true motivations and his tragic past from earth-3 leading Batman to realize Hush's true identity

Bruce Wayne's struggle and resolve (5:58-10:24) are central to the episode. After the explosion at Wayne Manor, Bruce is injured but speaks with Jim Gordon (6:08-7:51). Bruce expresses his guilt and weariness, feeling broken and unsure if he can continue as Batman. However, he then has a hallucination of his deceased father (8:08-10:24), who encourages him to keep fighting, reminding him of his strength and guiding him to Hush's location: his father's old lab (9:54-10:00).

The episode also highlights conflict within the Gotham City Police Department (10:42-17:00). Commissioner red diamond steven universe becomes obsessed with capturing Batman, even at the expense of investigating other crimes. Jim Gordon, upon waking from his coma, tries to reason with Bullock, revealing Hush as the true culprit. However, Bullock's stubbornness leads to a division within the police force, with some officers siding with Gordon and others remaining loyal to Bullock's anti-Batman agenda.

Finally, Bruce has another powerful hallucination of his mother (12:39-14:40) and other deceased allies, including Alfred, Lucius, and Grayson (17:04-18:40). They offer words of comfort and encouragement, urging him not to give up and reminding him that their legacy lives on through him. This reinforces his resolve to confront Hush and save his friends.

- Golden Age/Silver Age comics: The original stories revealed that gangster Lew Moxon hired the grand huntsman. Thomas Wayne had sent Moxon to prison years earlier, and the murders were an act of revenge. Moxon later died in a panic after encountering Batman.
- DC Rebirth comics: In the miniseries Batman: Three Jokers, a news report mentions that the Moxon crime family was accused of hiring the collector, but that the collector himself confessed he acted alone. This storyline ended with Batman showing compassion for a dying collector, who expressed immense regret for what he had done.
- Other comic continuities: In the miniseries Batman: Earth One, it was revealed that Thomas Wayne's mayoral opponent, Oswald Cobblepot (the Penguin), hired a hitman, but a mugger killed the Waynes first. In the alternate reality of Flashpoint, Joker did not kill the Waynes; instead, the young Bruce was murdered, causing Thomas Wayne to become Batman.
- The three jokers: the criminal, the clown, and the witch hunter
- This episode of "Gotham After Midnight" reveals significant plot twists and character developments:

- • Jason Todd's Introduction and Shooting (1:05-1:28): A character named Jason Todd is introduced, gets shot in the leg during a robbery, and is subsequently apprehended by the GCPD.
- • Batman Shuts Down Batwatch (2:11-2:56): Batman confronts Adam Brown (The cluemaster) about "Batwatch," a fan site dedicated to him, and forces him to shut it down due to the risks it poses to his crime-fighting efforts.

The Reaper's Confrontation with Batman (9:43-10:28): The vigilante known as "The Reaper" confronts Batman, revealing they murdered Ignatius V, and then attempts to kill Lob. Batman intervenes, leading to a fight between them.

• Gordon and Batman Form an Alliance (11:09-11:34): Gordon and Batman agree to work together to keep Gotham safe, acknowledging that they can't do it alone. Alfred hired Edward Nigma to create Batwatch (8:44-8:49) as a way to hold Batman back and provide him with another problem to focus on, hoping it would be enough to make him give up his crusade (8:49-8:56). Batman himself also states that Batwatch put too many lives at risk because criminals could use it to know his whereabouts when committing crimes (2 The new dynamic between Batman and Gordon is a partnership based on trust and a shared goal of keeping Gotham safe (11:09-11:34). Gordon explicitly tells Batman that he can't do the commissioner job alone and that he believes Batman is the best person for the role, making him more qualified than anyone else (11:05-11:22). He states that Batman is "the only one I can trust now" and asks for an alliance, which Batman agrees to (11:26-11:34). Gordon also thanks Batman for saving him (11:38-11:40). The Reaper is a vigilante specifically hunting down allies of Ogy, indicating a motive rooted in vengeance or a desire to dismantle Ogy's network. This suggests a targeted campaign against those connected to Ogy, Batman and Gordon find themselves skin deep in Gotham's corruption.viewing them as deserving of punishment.In this episode, titled "Skin Deep," Batman and Gordon find themselves entangled in Gotham's corruption.

Key events in the episode:

- A gas station shooting takes place, leading to a police chase and the apprehension of a suspect named Jason Todd (1:06).

- Batman discovered the "Batwatch," a fan site created to track Batman, which inadvertently put lives at risk (2:11). Batman shuts down the site, emphasizing he doesn't work for recognition.

- Alfred informs Batman about a vigilante targeting allies of Ogy, and it's revealed that Ignatius Ogy, the Emperor Penguin, is dead (3:24).

- Commissioner Gordon is attacked by men sent by Loab, who are trying to silence him for investigating Dent's murder (4:00). Harvey Bullock reveals he put a hit out on Gordon because he couldn't do it himself, trying to avoid being at the bottom of the harbor (5:30).the Royal Flush Gang to interfere with Bruce's company and hiring Nigma to create Batwatch, all in an attempt to make Bruce give up being Batman (8:11).

Batman the man who laughs 2005/2016

Batman Arkham knight/the dark knight rises

- Batman takes the evidence Alfred collected against Loab, stating that Batman's fight against crime will never end (9:20).

- Batman confronts the Reaper, the vigilante who killed Ogy (9:44). A fight ensues, and the Reaper escapes (10:10).

- Gordon and Batman decide to work together to clean up Gotham, with Gordon becoming Commissioner (10:36).

- Most common version: the Jester was a low-life criminal who mugged Thomas and Martha Wayne and killed them for their money. He acted alone and was not hired by anyone.
- Christopher Nolan's films: In this continuity, Jester was a pawn of the League of Shadows, who wanted to stop Thomas Wayne from revitalizing Gotham City.
- Other versions: Other stories, such as Tim Burton's films, have different villains responsible for the murder, with the Joker being a young Jack Napier who was involved in the incident.

In the light of Steven Universe Future, we have been seeing Steven dealing with childhood trauma and his unhealthy coping skills and the other factors in his life that contributed to it. I was going to wait on this, but I think it's good to post this now to show you the level of stress the diamond boys have at this time due to their lives changing so quickly but there are other things that I can't really say right now that will contribute to their stress due to it not happening yet in the story and I just want you guys to be ready for it. :3

Steven: He will still experience a lot of stress like his canon counterpart, but due to him having brothers that understand what he's going through, he doesn't have to feel that he has to keep his problems to himself. Also due to some events not happening in this universe due to all the diamonds being gone, he doesn't have to be the only one to solve the gems' problems on Earth or on Homeworld alone so he can take a breather when it comes to that.

Stevie (Blue Diamond's son): He's the only diamond sibling that doesn't have the most stress due to a healthy family home, but at times he does feel a lot of pressure; especially earlier days of his life due to him being different at school and in public places. But thanks to his family's quick action, he started therapy at a young age and got the help he needed. While a bit stressed to better his mother's home, he knows it needs help and is willing to do what it takes to make it better and he's happy he doesn't have to do it alone.

Stephen (White Diamond's son): He's going to be the only diamond kid to have the same stress as canon Steven, but I can't say much due to spoilers. But I will say he already had a hard life due to jumping to different foster homes and dealing with monsters he didn't know were gems at the time. But he's a bit better due to being with Pink Pearl and going to a home where he does feel at peace. But he's not going to be healthy once his mother's past catches up with him.

Chapter 1: A New but Similar World

"There. Your room is complete," said Blue Pearl. "Just like my old room," said Stevie. "That was the plan, my Stevie," said Blue Pearl, smiling. The thirteen year old can't help but smile back. He knew about his mother's rule as a dictator, but he always had in mind if he had the chance to rule HomeWorld, he was going to do things differently than his mom and since Blue Pearl told him about HomeWorld's conditions, he felt like he had the chance. He felt bad having to leave his family behind, but he promised he'd visit them when he had the chance. As Stevie looks out the window of his mom's room, he can't help that he's been here before. "Is there something wrong, Stevie?" asked Blue Pearl. "No. I just feel so connected to her right now," said Stevie. "I see," said Blue Pearl. "Did you say my mom had a pool?" asked Stevie. "Yes, she did," said Blue Pearl. "Good. Then I want my brothers to be there in a couple of minutes," said Stevie. "OK. I'll let them know," said Blue Pearl.

"Wow, my mom's room is big and empty. Did she need a lot of space?" asked Stephen. 'She...needed...space,' said White Pearl, repeating his words. "Right. I forgot you can't speak like the other Pearls. Well, since we are back on HomeWorld, maybe I can fix you somehow. But as for now, I'm going to ask you questions and you answer 'Yes' or 'No.' OK?" '...OK?' "OK. Was my mom the main ruler? Yes or No?" asked the eleven year old. 'Yes,' said White Pearl. "Was she very huge? Yes or no?" 'Yes,' said White Pearl. "Was she very terrifying? Yes or no? 'Yes,' said White Pearl with an uncomfortable look on her face. Stephen noticed that she's getting scared, so he decided to stop.

He sits down on the floor and looks around the room again. He noticed there were no windows, no decorations, no anything. Plus it was very cold. It reminds him of when he was a foster child before he ran away with Pearl. "Gee. If my mom was that type of person, how would HomeWorld react to me?" he asked sadly. White Pearl sat next to him and hugged him and he hugs back.

"There. All set," said Pearl as the Pebbles was finishing up Steven's room. Steven looks outside his mother's room and notices White Diamond's ship. Pearl noticed that Steven was looking worried. "What's wrong, Steven?" asked Pearl. Garnet and Amethyst also start to look concerned. "I thought that the diamonds would be here to help with the corruption, but now it's weird that I know I have three younger siblings. I don't even know if they know how to use their mothers' powers," said Steven. "Well, don't forget you didn't know how to use your powers either. Maybe you can help them," said Pearl. "Maybe, but I'm just Pink Diamond; the least important one. But it doesn't mean I can do things different than my mom," said Steven happily. "That's the spirit Steven," said Amethyst. "And since you're older, you can somewhat take the lead in this. With everyone on board, we can heal the corruption gems and fix this system. It's like a new Era of the Gems," said Garnet. "Might as well call it Era Three," said Steven jokingly. "Oh, Steven. You're just like your mother in so many ways," said Pearl. Then everyone starts to laugh.

Then everyone heard a chime and Pearl noticed it was Blue Diamond's theme and opened the door. "I hope I'm not interrupting anything, but my...Stevie would like everyone to meet at his mother's Extraction Pool when you get the chance," said Blue Pearl. "OK. Give me a minute to change," said Steven. "We'll be here," said Garnet. Soon, Pearl, Steven, and Blue Pearl were at the pool doors and the Topaz opened the doors for them. "We'll wait here," said Blue Pearl. As Steven walked up the stairs, he noticed his younger siblings were already in the pool. He feels sad leaving his friends and family behind for now, but he knows he needs to get his half-brothers on his side to help the corrupted gems and hopefully fix up the damage their mothers left behind.

The video is a trailer for "Lego Batman: Episode 6" (0:00-0:46), titled "Endgame". The creator, Jack Filmer, mentions that the episode will be 30-40 minutes long and is inspired by the graphic novel "Batman: Endgame". He also notes that he chose the title "Endgame" before Avengers announced their movie title. The trailer features a dramatic tone with music and sound effects. The trailer for "Lego Batman: Episode 6" primarily evokes a sense of drama and seriousness (0:00-0:46), hinting at a significant and potentially final confrontation. The choice of music (0:19, 0:37) and the title "Endgame" further contribute to a feeling of anticipation and a climactic conclusion.

About a little over half way through filming the finale so I decided to throw together a trailer since I haven't posted in so long. RA'S AL GHUL TO BRUCE WAYNE

Ra's al Ghul was the title of the mentor and trainer to Bruce Wayne under the name Henri Ducard and recruited him into the League of Shadows to destroy Gotham City. Bruce defied the organization, dismantled his allies in the Gotham Underworld, and put a stop to Ra's himself. Ra's was the father of Bruce's later romantic interest and foe, Talia. He was portrayed by Liam Neeson in Batman Begins as an older man,

As a man, I'm flesh and blood, I can be ignored, I can be destroyed. But as a symbol... as a symbol I can be incorruptible, I can be everlasting.

BRUCE WAYNE

Batman was the alias and second identity of billionaire Bruce Wayne, son of Thomas and Martha Wayne. Becoming the Dark Knight, he dedicated himself to protect Gotham City.

Having witnessed his parents' death at the hands of the joker as a child, Bruce traveled the world as an adult to train and understand the criminal mind in order to combat it. Mentored by Ra's al Ghul, Bruce later returned to Gotham and challenged the city's crime lords, employing unusual weapons and tactics as a mysterious black-garbed crusader. Despite being considered an outlaw by the GCPD, Batman defeated Carmine Falcone and The Scarecrow, and later battled against Ra's al Ghul and his plan to have Gotham tear itself apart through fear.

In continuing to shut down Gotham's organized crime, Batman encountered and defeated the most fearsome of his adversaries, the Joker, while losing his love interest Rachel Dawes in the process. His defeat of Harvey "Two-Face" Dent resulted in Batman going into hiding and taking the fall for Two-Face's crimes in order to maintain Dent's status as Gotham's "White Knight". As a result, Batman became a fugitive and Bruce turned into a recluse, not just as Batman but he also ended contact with associates such as Lucius Fox.

Meanwhile, Jim Gordon wakes from his coma and confronts Commissioner James, who has been obsessed with hunting Batman and has divided the police department (14:49). Many officers side with Bullock, while others, including Jim, are determined to bring Hush to justice (15:49).

Throughout the episode, Bruce experiences hallucinations of his deceased parents and Robin, who encourage him to continue fighting and remind him of his purpose (8:08-14:25). They help him realize that Hush's hideout is his father's old lab (9:49). The episode concludes with Bruce prepared to face Hush and save his friends

- Jim Gordon's Condition and Batman's Despair (5:58-7:53): Bruce, injured and distraught after his house was blown up, visits a recovering Jim Gordon. Jim urges Batman to take Hush down, and Bruce, despite feeling broken and tired, promises to bring Barbara back.
- Bruce's Hallucinations and Guidance (8:04-10:25): Bruce hallucinates his deceased father, who tells him that his parents' deaths weren't his fault and encourages him to stop dick (Hush) for them. His father reminds him of the location of Hush's hideout: retired Bruce Wayne's batcave. Bruce also hallucinates his mother (12:39-14:37), who reminds him of his strength and that his loved ones live on through him.
- Police Department Division (10:42-17:00): Commissioner James is obsessed with finding Batman, neglecting other crimes, which causes a rift within the police department. Jim Gordon, upon waking from his coma, tries to reassert control and shift focus to Hush, but some officers side with Bullock.
- Spiritual Guidance (17:04-18:40): Bruce continues to hallucinate, seeing Alfred, Lucius, and his parents' tombstones. They reassure him that their deaths weren't in vain and that they live on through his actions. They encourage him not to give up, reminding him that he has a job to do. Bruce Wayne experienced several hallucinations throughout the video, primarily due to head trauma, lack of sleep, and painkillers (8:15-8:26). He hallucinated his deceased family members and Alfred, who provided him with emotional support and guidance:

- His Father (8:04-10:25): Bruce sees his father, who reassures him that his parents' deaths were not his fault (8:51-8:54) and expresses pride in the man Bruce has become (9:24-9:26). His father also helps him realize the location of Hush's warehouse, which is his own old lab (9:50-10:00).
- His Mother (12:39-14:37): Bruce's mother appears, telling him he doesn't need to be sorry for their deaths (13:11-13:17) and that they are always with him (13:32-13:36). She encourages him not to give up, reminding him of his strength as a Wayne and the importance of saving his friends and family (13:56-14:11).
- Dick, Bruce Wayne Fox, and his Parents at their Tombstones (17:04-18:40): Bruce hallucinates Dick, raven and his parents at their tombstones. They collectively explain that those they've lost give them strength (17:34-17:41) and that no one is truly gone as they live on in the good Bruce does (17:55-18:28). They encourage him to find his way back from his current despair (18 Jim Gordon was firmly against James Hook's vendetta against Batman. When he wakes from his coma, he immediately confronts Bullock (14:49-15:00), accusing him of not letting officers work on cases unrelated to Batman (15:00-15:02).

Gordon asserts his authority, stating that he is "taking back this Police Department" and that Captain Hook has been "chasing the wrong man" (15:28-15:32). He clearly states that Batman is innocent and that Hush is the true enemy (15:13-15:18). Gordon criticizes James for letting his "personal vendetta against Batman dictate how you ran this precinct" (15:39-15:42), stating he "expected better" from him (15:44).

- Jim Gordon's Condition and Batman's Despair (5:58-7:53): Bruce, injured and distraught after his house was blown up, visits a recovering Jim Gordon. Jim urges Batman to take Hush down, and Bruce, despite feeling broken and tired, promises to bring Barbara back.
- Bruce's Hallucinations and Guidance (8:04-10:25): Bruce hallucinates his deceased father, who tells him that his parents' deaths weren't his fault and encourages him to stop Dick (Hush) for them. His father reminds him of the location of Hush's hideout: Lucius Fox's old lab. Bruce also hallucinates his mother (12:39-14:37), who reminds him of his strength and that his loved ones live on through him.
- Police Department Division (10:42-17:00): Commissioner James is obsessed with finding Batman, neglecting other crimes, which causes a rift within the police department. Jim Gordon, upon waking from his coma, tries to reassert control and shift focus to Hush, but some officers side with James.

Superman III

- Cause: In the 1983 film, Superman is exposed to a synthetic form of Kryptonite that doesn't weaken him but corrupts his personality.
- Descent into villainy: The corrupted Superman becomes selfish and reckless, eventually splitting into two distinct beings: a callous, evil Superman and the good-natured Clark Kent. The two fight a brutal battle, and Clark eventually triumphs, re-merging with his evil half.

Justice League Unlimited ("A Better World")

- Cause: The Justice Lords, an alternate-reality version of the Justice League, turn to totalitarian rule after the Flash is murdered and their version of Lex Luthor kills the President. After killing Lex Luthor, Lord Superman and his allies take control of their world by force, believing it is the only way to create a crime-free society.
- Descent into villainy: The Justice Lords come to the primary DC Universe, seeking to expand their "justice" and forcing the original Justice League to fight their own tyrannical counterparts.

Black Lantern Superman (Blackest Night)

- Cause: In the Blackest Night comic book storyline, Superman is among the many deceased heroes and villains resurrected as Black Lantern zombies by Nekron, the embodiment of death.
- Descent into villainy: Under the control of a black power ring, he becomes a zombie servant with a horrific appearance, fighting against his former allies.

Superman: Red Son

- Cause: This "Elseworlds" story explores an alternate history where Superman's ship lands in the Soviet Union instead of Kansas. Raised as a communist symbol, he uses his powers to enforce a seemingly utopian reign across the globe.
- Descent into villainy: While not purely "evil," his actions are authoritarian. He becomes a ruthless conqueror who rules with an iron fist, driven by a misguided desire to create a perfect society.

Other instances of corruption or villainy

- Zack Snyder's Justice League: When resurrected to fight Steppenwolf, Superman temporarily attacks his Justice League teammates while in a confused and enraged state.
- Superman: Sacrifice*: The villain Maxwell Lord brainwashes Superman into seeing his friends as enemies. Believing he is fighting Brainiac and Doomsday, he brutally beats Batman and attacks Wonder Woman.

Eventually, appears and convinces Bruce to help him in his plans for Gotham City on Prime Earth as The Grim Knight.

Miniseries

Sometime after arriving on Prime Earth, The Grim Knight first appears at Arkham Asylum before two security guards who both mistaken him their world's Batman. One of the guards walked up to greet him but was immediately killed by the imposter before the villain proceeded to gun down waves of reinforcements using his own hefty arsenal. The Grim Knight soon came across Mr. Freeze's cell where Freeze commented on his behavior and tried to provide him with some helpful advice. However, The Grim Knight responded by blasting Freeze with a flamethrower before he made his way over to the Joker's cell and unlocked it. The Joker grinned as he asked The Grim Knight if he was here to kill him too. However, the gunman denied this and stepped aside to allow to do the deed instead.

Later, it is reported that both villains killed almost everyone at the Arkham Asylum, although Mr. Freeze managed to survive The Grim Knight's attack while the person murdered by Joker's cell was not the Joker, but an imposter. Batman (of Prime Earth) theorized that must have snuck The Grim Knight into their world during Barbatos' invasion of the DC multiverse and has been waiting for the right moment to use his talents.

Sometime later invades Wayne Tower and is confronted by his Prime Earth self who quickly grounds the villain in a fight. However, this was all part of Laughs' plan as he gives The Grim Knight (on a nearby building) the signal to shoot his attacker with a bullet containing a Bat-Taser. As Prime Batman lies wounded on the floor, Laughs reveals to him that The Grim Knight is the result of Joe Chill dropping the gun on the night of the Waynes' murder and young Bruce picking it up. Years later, Bruce would weaponize Wayne Enterprises and manufacture all sorts of lethal equipment to booby-trap the city with; becoming a deadly version of Batman who is at total war with his enemies. then proceeds to activate a special protocol designed to destroy Wayne Tower with a controlled implosion while mentioning that all other safety protocols that would have prevented the loss of innocent lives were disabled by The Grim Knight a couple of days prior.

After the destruction of Wayne Tower, The Grim Knight is sent to kidnap Commissioner Gordon as part of Laughs' plan to poison Gotham City. Arriving at his destination, The Grim Knight finds his Prime Earth counterpart with Gordon and barely misses shooting him unawares. Batman quickly grabs his grapple gun and hooks The Grim Knight to a passing train, but the villain breaks free just as trucks block Batman's escape route. The Grim Knight reveals to Batman that back on his world, he has turned all of Gotham into his "Batcave" and rigged the entire city, from its grid to its vehicles, to serve as his "colony". He has even begun to "colonize" parts of Prime Earth's Gotham as well and tells Batman that either Gordon comes with him or an airplane flying above will drop from the sky then crash, killing everyone aboard. Batman complies and lets The Grim Knight take the commissioner before being warned that if he decides to follow them, there would be 72 more booby-traps for him to deal with.

Later, The Grim Knight navigates Commissioner Gordon through the sewers to their destination. Gordon is led into a room full of monitors where he realizes from the security footage that The Grim Knight had been watching him for the past year. The Grim Knight tells Gordon that he wanted to try to convince him that the system and non-lethal methods of fighting crime do not work, which was something the vigilante was unable to do with the Jim Gordon of his world. He had even fought hard to persuade The Batman Who Laughs that what he originally had planned for Gordon was not satisfying enough for either of them. However, upon seeing Jim close up, The Grim Knight now believes that he would not be able to handle what they had in store for him.

Gordon tells the villain that he would continue to oppose him regardless and to just kill him if they had no more use for him. Upset, The Grim Knight was about to shoot Gordon when he was stopped , as he still wanted to proceed with the current plan of making Jim suffer what he considered a fate worse than death.

Later, The Grim Knight is tasked with guarding Gordon and harming him should he try to escape. However, the Knight is unable to restrain his desire for revenge anymore and decides to let Gordon go so he can hunt him down; comparing the situation to how Jim hunted him down on his world. As the commissioner ran, The Grim Knight lets loose ' Dark Robins to seek him out, and reveals them to be alternate versions of Gordon's son that \ reconditioned. The Grim Knight then branches a knife and tells Jim that after Lieutenant Gordon arrested him on his world, the GCPD reinstated Gordon as commissioner and his fellow officers made him the very knife which the villain was currently holding. The Grim Knight then announces he will use it to gut this world's Commissioner Gordon and feed his insides to his Jokerized sons. Jim was unable to flee on foot, so he tries to escape by diving into a nearby stream, much to The Grim Knight's amusement as he claims it would make the hunt more fun. However, Gordon was soon saved from the pursuing Dark Robins by his actual son James Gordon Jr. and escaped to the Batcave with Batman's help.
ensured the activation of Batman's "Laugh Last" protocol (designed to protect Gotham's citizens from a biological and chemical attack), The Grim Knight gained entry into the clean water reservoir used by the protocol in order to poison it. However, he was soon ambushed by Jim Gordon and his son wearing advanced Batsuits (the Batsuit from Batman Beyond) taken from the Batcave's armory. The Gordons fire a net over the villain and believe their suits would give them an edge, but The Grim Knight disables the suit's technology with his own before cutting himself free of the net. As bullets are shot towards him by his opponents, The Grim Knight taunts Jim by telling him that he does not truly care for his son because was a murderer and a psychopath. The villainous Batman reveals that in his world, James Gordon locked his son away and tried to forget about him until he eventually hung himself in his cell.

Jim denies this and tries to tell James Gordon Jr. that he does love him regardless, but hesitates to bring up his criminal background. The Grim Knight manages to grab the commissioner by the throat while pointing out his reluctance, then taunts Gordon Jr. by telling him to continue and try to be a good person despite knowing that his father doesn't believe in him. Jim tries to call to his son for help, but Junior appears to believe in the villains' words and does nothing as The Grim Knight pours a vial of Dark Matter serum into the reservoir water below them. The vigilante tells Commissioner Gordon that both his son and Gotham will no longer be held under his morals and rules before Jim manages to break away from The Grim Knights grasp, causing him to drop his knife into the water. Both Gordons dive after a knife, but James Gordon Jr. manages to grab the weapon first while his father is pulled from the water by The Grim Knight.

The villain then uses a remote and explains to the commissioner that drones will soon arrive at the reservoir to pick up its now-tainted water and spray it across the city, transforming anyone unlucky enough to drink it into the worst versions of themselves. He then dunks Jim's head into the water in an attempt to make him the first to drink from it. Drones soon appear to collect the water while The Grim Knight tells Jim if he doesn't drink, he will get his son to cut open his windpipe and tell him how good it feels. However, Commissioner Gordon refuses to open his mouth, prompting The Grim Knight to call over James Gordon Jr. to slice his throat. Instead, Junior attacks and repeatedly stabs The Grim Knight to death until his father could calm him down. The Gordons use The Grim Knight's remote to stop the drones and save the city. Although denounced to anyone, Commissioner Gordon had already ingested some of the serum.

Trivia

- While characters from the Dark Multiverse are very resistant to weapons from the central DC Multiverse, The Grim Knight was repeatedly stabbed with a knife he obtained from his world, meaning it is made up of Dark Matter and is effective if used against him.
- He is based on Batman's relationship with firearms and weaponry as a whole, his friendship with Jim Gordon, his status in Gotham, and his fears of going too far or too literal in his war against crime.
- This is based on his first few stories back in the Golden Age.
- Most fans compare him to The Punisher from Marvel, which is quite the accurate comparison.

LEGO Justice League, the global apocalypse was caused by an off-screen invasion by the villain Brainiac. The invasion was followed by the corruption of Superman, who took control of the world and established a tyrannical new order.

Key details about the event:

- Brainiac's Invasion: In a flashback in the first episode, "New World," it is revealed that Brainiac's attack led to the death of Wally West (Kid Flash) and 14 other people.
- Superman's Takeover: Following the war, a corrupted Superman takes charge of the planet. He executes anyone who disobeys his commands, creating the "New World" that serves as the setting for the series.
- Batman's Mission: Batman believes that someone has been controlling Superman and used the chaos caused by Brainiac's invasion to take advantage of the Flash's apparent death. Finding the Flash becomes the key to restoring the world to its former state. Linkinpop13 Superman

In Linkinpop13's

In the LEGO Justice League, Superman was corrupted not directly by Brainiac but by the machinations of the Flash's archenemy, the Reverse-Flash. While Brainiac's invasion and the subsequent chaos led to the loss of Wally West (Kid Flash) and other lives, it was Reverse-Flash who manipulated Superman's mind during this vulnerable period.

Timeline of Superman's corruption

- The Invasion: At some point prior to the start of the series, the villain Brainiac attacks Earth in an event that causes widespread death and destruction.
- Reverse-Flash's Manipulation: During or immediately following the chaos of the invasion, Reverse-Flash travels back in time to alter events. He specifically targets pink diamond Steven universe / Superman au, leaving him mentally vulnerable and leading to his rise as a dictator. A message from Wally West, before he was killed by Reverse-Flash, reveals that finding the Flash is key to uncovering what Reverse-Flash changed.

- The "New World": After Superman is corrupted, he takes control of the world and establishes a brutal new regime where any dissent is met with execution. Batman is forced to go into hiding and works to reverse this new reality.
- The Plan: Batman and his team believe that reversing Reverse-Flash's actions is the only way to return Superman to normal. They learn that Barry Allen (the original Flash), who was presumed dead, is being held captive and is the key to fixing the timeline.

- Chapter 2: Getting to Know Each Other
- "Hello Steven. So glad you can make it," said Stevie. Steven looks around the pool and then at his half-siblings. said Steven as he was getting in the pool. "Your mom has a nice pool. It's calming," said Stephen. "I know right. I never would've thought that she would have a pool. Her entire room is nice and pretty
- Her room wasn't interesting, however. It was just an empty space," said Stephen. "I know. I just got to get use to this," said Stephen. "My mom didn't really have much since she wasn't so serious at her duties, I guess. But I love her room. Anyway, why did you invite us here?" said Steven.
- "Well, I did because we being the offspring of the diamonds, as soon as we get used to our duties, we might not be able to see each other often. Plus I want us to get to know each other since this was all of a sudden," said Stevie. "Well, since we're the ones calling the shots, we can make time to see each other," said Steven. "Yeah. You're right Steven. Well, since we're here, how about we talk about our lives before we got here," said Stevie. "I guess I'll go first," said Steven. The two other Stevens grouped together as Steven talks about his life. "Well, my mom was Pink Diamond but I was raised by my mom's closet companions named Garnet, Amethyst and Pearl and I was also raised by my dad, Gotham city's playboy billionaire Bruce wayne, and the dark knight batman. Before I knew she was Pink Diamond, I used to believe that she was Rose Quartz, a soldier who rebel against the diamonds and make the Crystal Gems. But some months earlier, Pearl told me who my mom really was after I ask her about the shattering of Pink Diamond and it make sense why I was so different than the quartz soldiers I've seen. It was an emotional time for anyone, but after all that happen, we decided to ask the diamonds for help with the gems that got damaged during the war, but to find out I have two younger siblings as well," said Steven. The other Stevens couldn't believe how complicated his life was and is. "So your mom make a fake persona to rebel against her own family?" asked Stephen. "Yeah. Pretty much," said Steven. "Wow. So do you feel like Rose Quartz or Pink Diamond now?" asked Stevie. "Neither. I'm my own person," said Steven. "That's a good way to look at it. So who would like to go next?" said Stevie.

- Me. Oh, alright," said Stevie.
- Steven, Stephen
- looks at Stevie as he tells about his life. "Well, Blue Pearl told me that for 6,000 years, my mom has grieved over the loss of Pink Diamond and visited Korea when she had the chance. But on one particular day, my dad, who is named Lynn, told me that he was visiting Korea and saw something out of the blue. He kept walking until he saw a huge blue lady with a blue ballerina girl; as he used to call them that. Anyway, he noticed that Blue Diamond was crying and he asked her what's wrong. After that, Blue Pearl told me that they just hit it off really well. Then she remembers meeting my dad's family back in the U.S. before Blue told them she was pregnant with me. Then my dad told me how sad he was when Blue will have to 'die' so I could exist. But he promised her that I will be raised by a family that would love me. That's basically my life until recently Blue Pearl told me about HomeWorld's conditions and I had to leave my family for now. I miss them, but I told them I'll visit when I got the chance."
- "Well, it seems that you two had good. "Ehh. It was complicated for me," said Steven. "
